W. J. BURRIS DIES SUDDENLY

Our citizens were shocked on Monday morning last, to learn that W. J. Burris, postmaster, and for the past thirty-five years a resident of Lacombe had passed away. While in indifferent health for several years, deceased had been about his usual work up to eight o'clock on Sunday evening, and was at the Post Office attending to the outgoing mail, when he complained of feeling unwell and returned to his home. During the early night he suffered unusual pain, which, however passed away, and he went to bed. Later on Mrs. Burris saw that he was seriously ill and called in medical aid, but the sufferer was beyond assistance and died about two o'clock a.m. Monday.

W. J. Burris was one of our most respected citizens and had a host of friends in town and district. He succeeded his father as postmaster here three years ago and was a most painstaking and courteous official.

He leaves to mourn, his mother and wife, two children Ollie and William, one sister, Mrs. Andrew Gilmour, besides a number of other relatives in the district and in his old home in Nova Scotia. He was in his fifty-second year.

The funeral is being held this afternoon under the auspices of the Masonic order.

The bereaved ones have the sincere sympathy of everyone in the district.

ROTARY CLUB FORMED HERE

At a large meeting held here last night, at which every business in Lacombe was represented, it was decided to form a Rotary Club here. Messrs. Thos. Wilkes, A. M. Campbell and Norman Campbell were nominated to further the organization, and judging by the large number making application last night, the organization should get underway by the first of the year.

AGRICULTURAL MEETING

Lacombe, Alberta, Dec. 7, 1928
Pursuant to notice, The General Meeting of the Society was held in the Town Hall, Lacombe, at 3 p.m. on above date, with the President, C. E. Damron in the Chair.
Present J. McKenzie, J. M. Douglas, J. W. Biglands, J. Laing, Alex. Hall, H. Traine, C. B. Halpin, Gordon Flack, J. H. Roper, W. Riddison, Jas. Metcalf, Gavin Barbour, D. Hay, J. W. Fawcett, A. Belcher, J. J. Kasha and Jas. Darroch.

The minutes of the last General Meeting were read and on motion of J. W. Biglands and H. Traine were adopted and passed as read.

The President addressed the meeting in which he made a report on the proceedings of The Fairs Convention which he attended at Edmonton last February. He also expressed his appreciation for the able assistance rendered the society by the Sports' Committee and all those who helped to put the Fair over the top this year.

The secretary then read the Judges' reports on the Fair for this year, which everyone present felt were very satisfactory. The Secretary then read the Annual Report as certified by the Auditor. The same was adopted on motion of J. McKenzie and J. H. Roper.

The Secretary then read a circular letter from Fairs Association in reference to their annual meeting, in which they asked for the appointment of a delegate and the regular fee. After some discussion it was moved by J. McKenzie and Biglands that D. Hay be the delegate and A. Belcher as alternate in case Hay should not be able to go.

The Sports Committee then made their report through their Secretary, A. Belcher, and which showed a net balance of $23.25 after all expenditures were taken care of. This report was passed on motion of J. M. Douglas and J. W. Biglands.

The President and Secretary made short addresses on the matter of the Municipal Grant which as yet, this year, has not been donated to us by the Municipal Council. The President reported that he had attended on the Council in August and while they gave him a very attentive hearing, they have not as yet taken any action in the matter. This matter was discussed very fully and it was felt that a further effort should be made to procure this grant, which is so vital to our existence as a society. To this end it was moved by Jack McKenzie and J. M. Douglas that the President, D. Hay and J. J. Kasha approach the Council at their next meeting and further urge on them to continue this yearly grant. Carried.

The dates for our next fair was then taken up and on motion of J. W. Biglands and J. M. Douglas the delegate was instructed to try and secure for us the first Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday immediately following the Camrose Fair, if it should be held following Red Deer Fair or if there should be sufficient time between Red Deer and Camrose Fair to try and have our dates between those two.

It was moved by J. Metcalf and W. Riddison, that a charge be made at our fair next year for cars admitted to the grounds and a charge for the Grand Stand attractions. The fixing of that charge to be left in the hands of the Directors. Carried.

Moved by J. M. Douglas and J. Laing that we act jointly with the Lacombe Board of Trade in tendering a banquet to the Live Stock Breeders who brought so much publicity to the Lacombe District with their exhibits at Toronto, Chicago, Vancouver and at Calgary at their recent stock shows. Carried.

Mr. G. Barbour addressed the meeting expressing his appreciation for the grant given The Boys and Girls' Swine Club and the assistance given him at our Fair this year. He said that this year was the first in which he was able to pay the full prize money offered and that it was only through our co-operation he was able to accomplish this.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of officers with the following result: Patron: Hon. Wm. Egbert, Lieut. Governor; Hon. President, Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture; Hon. Vice-Presidents, Hon. Irene Paribby, Mr. S. G. Carlyle, President, H. Traine; 1st Vice-President, Thos. Henderson; 2nd Vice-President, W. F. Puffer.

Directors: G. Barbour, P. Ballantine, H. Fiewelling, J. Metcalf, C. F. Damron, Joseph Roper, David Hay, E. C. Chapman, A. Belcher, J. Laing, F. Langrock, W. Fawcett, J. Graydon, W. McKenzie, H. Magilton, Jack Finlay, J. M. Douglas, J. Biglands, R. M. MacKenzie, J. MacKenzie, Jas. Wright, C. B. Halpin, F. H. Reed.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned on motion of J. M. McKenzie and J. M. Douglas. Carried.

LOCKHART NEWS

Mrs. Jim Robson spent a few days in Rimbey, visiting her daughter, Mrs. Chester Rimbey.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. L. Gyori is seriously ill at the Bentley Hospital.

Mr. N. A. Palm and Mr. Chas. Atkins attended school meeting at Mr. Krain's on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robson and son motored to Red Deer on Thursday.

The Lockhart W. I. G. C. held their meeting on Saturday. All the old business was cleared up. The club is in the best financial standing that it has been in since it's organization. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Louise Beddoes; Vice-Pres., Margaret Calkins; Sec.-Treas. Jessie Malcolm; The Club has sent for some Christmas toys and seals which they expect to sell within the next two weeks. Half the proceeds will be used by the club, the other half will go to the Red Cross, to be used for the treatment of tubercular children.

The W. I. held their annual meeting on Wednesday. The same officers were re-elected. Quite a number of donations were sent to the Bentley hospital, but more will be sent shortly. The W.I. will have the Child Welfare Clinic this year (1929) also a three day demonstration in Dressmaking. They are not giving Christmas treats to the school children this year, but will give them a present later on. All members for the standing committees will be appointed and the work outlined at the next meeting, which will be held on the second Wednesday in January at the home of Mrs. Jim Jaffray.

Mr. Wm. Irvine, M.P. gave a very interesting talk last Thursday evening on the last session in parliament.

BENTLEY NEWS

Grandma Thorp left on Monday for Calgary where she will spend the winter.

Vernon, the little son of Mrs. Verna Raymond who was quite seriously ill with pneumonia is now fully recovered.

Mrs. J. G. Blish, returned last week from Victoria, B.C., where she has been visiting her daughter Mrs. Alice Harper.

On Wednesday, Nov. 28, Bishop Sherman of Calgary assisted by Rev. Chapman of Lacombe held a confirmation service at the Anglican Church when a class of 3 were confirmed. After the service the class with a few friends repaired to the home of Mrs. Hewitt where supper was served and a social hour followed.

Mrs. Davidson arrived from Field last week for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Blish.

The Ladies Aid of the United Church held a very successful tea and bazaar at the Club Rooms on Saturday, December 8. Quite a crowd was in attendance and the goods offered by the ladies sold well.

Mr. Apps and family moved into the Webb Damron house last week. He came from Blackfalds where he was employed as section man for the C.P.R., but has been transferred here.

A large crowd gathered at the Community Hall on Monday evening when Mrs. Irene Paribby, Minister without Portfolio in the Alberta Govt. and Mr. Wm. Irvine, M.P. addressed their constituents. Mrs. Paribby took as her subject the co-operative movement, stressing particularly the social and spiritual values received, rather than the political and economic. She gave a short but very interesting description of the co-operative movement of Denmark and also the co-operative or folk-schools of that place, where she visited the past summer, and thus was able to give first hand information. Mr. Irvine gave an account of the work of the last Federal Parliament and what reforms the group of which he was a member, were able to bring about and those they were working for. As usual, both speakers held their audience, and Bentley people may feel proud that they have such able representatives in the Federal and Provincial parliament.

The Canadian Chautauqua closed a four day program here on Tuesday last. As usual a very large crowd was in attendance and the most of the programs were well received. A

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

- a Six in the price range of the four!

When you learn the full details of this sensational new automobile, you will realize that Chevrolet has provided these qualities of six-cylinder smoothness, power, acceleration and luxury which heretofore could only be enjoyed in cars costing several hundred dollars more!

The CHEVROLET Engine

The Outstanding Chevrolet is powered by a new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine of advanced design.

It develops 32% more power than the previous Chevrolet motor and affords greater speed, faster acceleration and an economy averaging better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline!

A new non-detonating cylinder head provides high compression performance without special fuels. The new hot-spot manifold assures complete fuel vaporization. The new and larger carburetor incorporates an automatic acceleration pump, and an improved venturi choke for quicker winter starting.

The new heavier crankshaft is statically and dynamically balanced. The entire rocker arm mechanism is automatically lubricated. Long engine life is provided for by AC air cleaner, continuous self-purification of the crankcase oil—and improved crankcase ventilation.

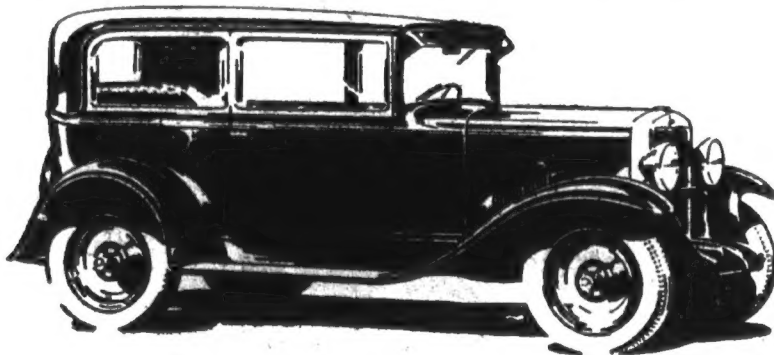

Big, powerful, easily adjustable four-wheel brakes. Ball-bearing steering mechanism. And such costly car features as two-beam headlights with toe button control for "dimming", semi-automatic spark control, theft-proof Electrolock, waterproof spark-coil construction, larger shielded safety gasoline tank in rear, improved differential lubrication and many other features of comparable importance.

New Bodies by Fisher

In addition the New Chevrolet offers an order of beauty, distinction and style never before attained in any low-priced automobile! The high flattened hood and the gleaming chromium plated radiator shell furnish the keynotes of rugged smartness and grace. The rakish unbroken lines, emphasized by distinctively grouped hood louvers, are suggestive of speed and alertness. The divided body moulding and concave front pillars reflect the vogue so widely favored by leading custom builders; while the larger, longer, lower bodies are themselves masterful examples of the craftsmanship for which Fisher is internationally renowned.

The seats are wider and more restful. The driver's seat in all closed models is easily adjustable, forward or back—a feature recently introduced on a few of the high-priced cars. The redesigned dash carries an attractive grouping of all control instruments indirectly lighted, including the new motor temperature indicator.

The Case of Russell Lord

While the government is investigating certain conditions in connection with the Ponoka Mental Hospital, the case of Russell Lord, an attendant, should also be investigated. Lord was the principal witness in the manslaughter charge against attendant Scott, a few weeks ago, when that man was charged with causing the death of Dr. Hobbs. It happened that Lord was with Scott when the abuse of Hobbs was going on, which is fortunate for the citizens of Alberta. Lord gave his evidence in a straightforward manner, and even Scott acknowledged that Lord was in no way to blame. Without Lord's evidence, it would have been practically impossible to arrive at the cause of Dr. Hobbs' death, and it would in all probability have remained an unsolved case, or have been attributed to a fall off a ladder or something else. Since giving his evidence, as any real man would, Lord has been an object of contempt among the other attendants, many of them refuse to speak or recognize him, and he is continually being made the target for anonymous insulting messages, and nothing to make his life miserable is being overlooked. And this is because he saw his duty and did it. Lord has complained to the "higher ups" and the only satisfaction he received was, "Well, Lord, if I were in your place I'd send in my resignation."

What do the other attendants at the Hospital want? Apparently they want someone with a more or less elastic conscience, who will wink at objectionable things that possibly go on. As to Lord's resigning his position—why should it be necessary. And if he is compelled to do so by the insults of the other employees, the least the government can do is to give him another position in one of their many institutions. To our way of thinking, a few men with the conscience of Lord should be scattered throughout every public institution. When the employees of an establishment know that wrong-doing will be reported, the fact has a most beneficial effect on all concerned.

Russell Lord is an educated, quiet man, and while employed in Lacombe for some years always minded his own business, and his employers will vouch for his honesty and integrity. He is not a "rough-neck," which probably mitigates against him in some quarters.

Another thing is worth mentioning. Russell Lord had only been employed at the Mental Hospital a few days when the Dr. Hobbs case transpired. At that time he was a strong and healthy young man. Since the midnight assault upon him by the other attendants who thought that he should have given no information with reference to the case, he is a physical wreck. He does not know what to expect, and is afraid to go out of the Hospital and go up town at night. Not that Lord is a coward. In all probability he is more than a match with his fists (as many English boys are) for the majority of young men of his age, but his experiences on the night of his assault are not easily forgotten.

We think Lord has something coming to him from the government, and if it does not come, we think that Lord has a perfectly legitimate case for heavy damages against the government, and we would suggest that he take the matter up with some reliable lawyer.

THE KIND OF MAN A WOMAN WANTS

Every woman has her ideal man, but seldom marries him.

Probably if she married him he would cease to be her ideal man.

Woman's big job in the world is her quest for her ideal.

It is a good thing she does not find and marry the ideal man, because, then she would have no job.

When a woman marries, she spends her time endeavoring to mould her husband into the man she idealises.

Sometimes she succeeds; sometimes she flops.

What does a woman desire most of the man she marries?

Not beauty, judging by some of the specimens; not even good looks, nor physical perfection.

She looks for manliness, consideration, understanding, dependability.

No woman likes to marry a weakling; if she does marry one, she idealises him as strong, often deluding herself in the process.

He must understand her and have consideration for her whims and weaknesses; or perhaps it should be put this way, that she must think he understands her.

Everybody likes to be understood, especially women; to feel misunderstood is worse than to be abused.

It is in the little things of life a man shows consideration for his woman; the bearing with her sentimentalities, of which she is full, and the ignoring of her petulances, of which she has a plenty—and no wonder, considering the man she marries.

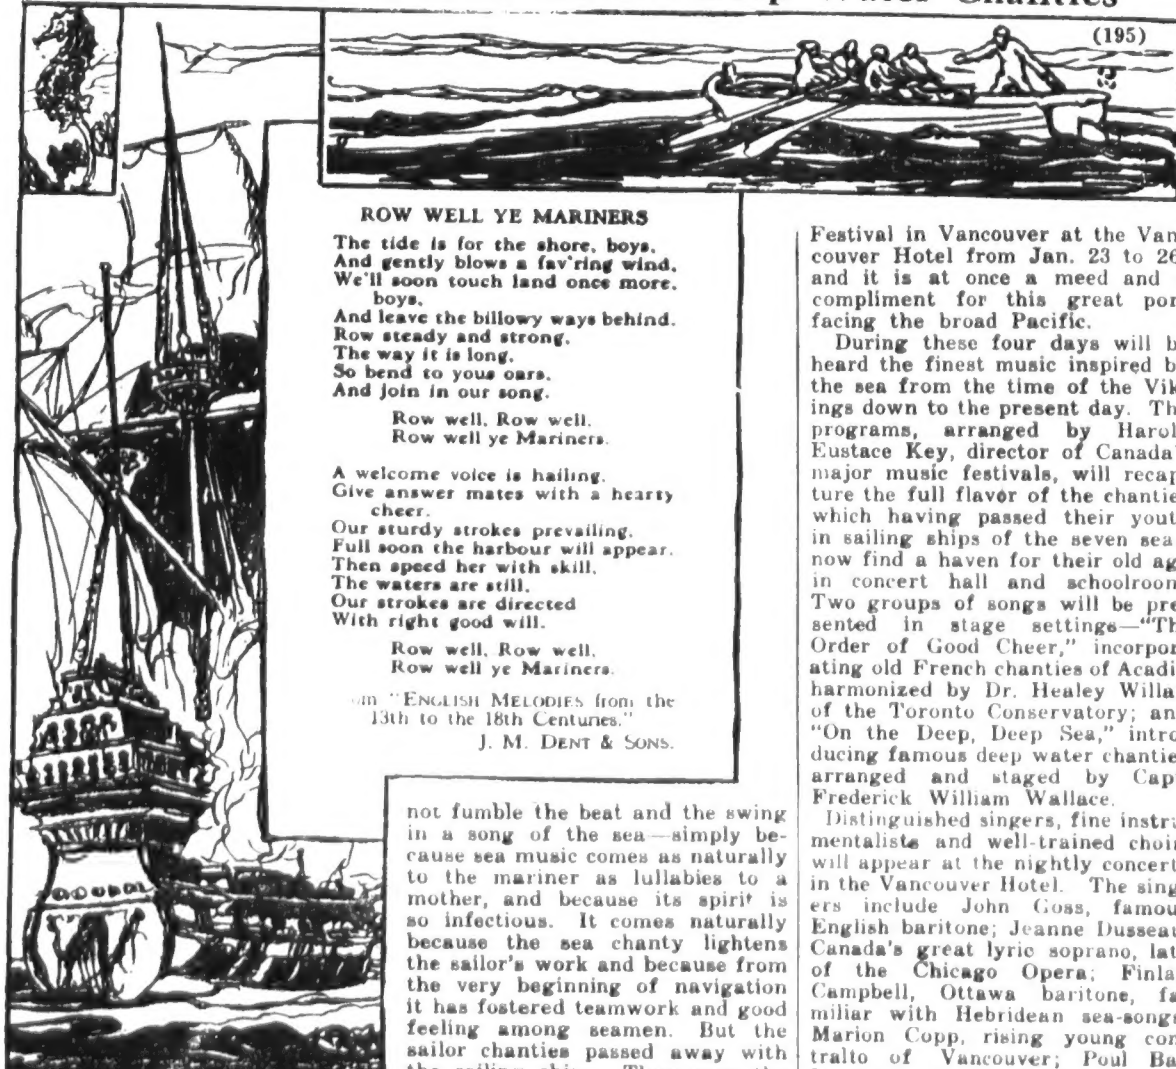

A woman will forgive almost any crime against her on her husband's part, if only she may depend upon his having consideration for her of the kind mentioned.

Perhaps, more than all, she demands dependability; that is why so many prefer husbands with steady jobs, in which they degenerate into mere sheep, to the more restless and brilliant kind who are always adventuring.

She likes a good provider, and wants to feel secure about the butcher's bills and the rent, and the annual holiday, and the bit put away for a rainy day.

The woman wants to know, too, that in her hour of need, the travail of childbirth, the illness that comes, the thousand and one crises of her life, her man is there, dependable and reliant.

Sea Music Festival to Revive Deep-Water Chanties

ROW WELL YE MARINERS
The tide is for the shore, boys,
And gently blows a fav'ring wind,
We'll soon touch land once more,
Boys,
And leave the billowy ways behind.
Row steady and strong;
The way it is long.
So bend to your oars,
And join in our song.

Row well, Row well,
Row well ye Mariners.

A welcome voice is hailing,
Give answer mates with a hearty cheer.

Our sturdy strokes prevailing,
Full soon the harbour will appear.
Then speed her with skill,
The waters are still.

Our strokes are directed
With right good will.

not fumble the beat and the swing in a song of the sea—simply because sea music comes as naturally to the mariner as lullabies to a mother, and because its spirit is so infectious. It comes naturally because the sea chanty lightens the sailor's work and because from the very beginning of navigation it has fostered teamwork and good feeling among seamen. But the sailor chanties passed away with the sailing ships. They were the seamen's working choruses whose utility declined when steam crowded the canvas-driven craft from the sea. There still remains a great and largely ungathered treasure of sea music which today is remembered only by grizzled sailors of clipper ship days. But as these old salts are bothered by failing memories, the tunes and the words they can still remember must be recorded soon if they are to be preserved for the future. This constitutes the real significance of the forthcoming Sea Music

THE WRECKER OF DREAMS

A Story in Four Parts
by C. R. Halpin Jr.

PART THREE

"Now John, don't laugh at me for what I'm going to tell you," said Walter Brantford one evening when he visited his chum. "For, I love her, oh, how I love her, I've been through hell ever since we met, and sometimes I think I'm crazy to think so much of any girl, but you know how it is when one really does love someone?"

"Well, gall darn it all Walter, why don't you marry her?" asked John Smith, the recipient of the woe-filled tidings. "Marry her and end your agony."

"That's just it, John, it seems that no matter how I hard I try, I seem to meet with opposition. Mable loves me, I feel certain, but then, her sister, Dorothy, and her old man don't seem to take kindly to the match, and the worst of it all is, that she's too young to elope with me, and wouldn't if she wasn't," replied Walter. "It's sure the bunk to fight the whole family."

"Then Walter, forget her. If she doesn't think enough of you to tell her folks to take a jump in the lake, and mind their own business, she isn't worth the battle," advised John.

"I've often thought the same thing, but all the time I keep loving her more. It seems that I just must have her or else go crazy. I wish her old man would get the idea out of his head that I'm not good enough for her. I know I'm not, but darn it all, I've heard of princesses getting married to chauffeurs or their hostlers, and though I'm not either, I think a perfectly good mechanic isn't too low for a princess. Most of 'em are broke now-a-days anyway, and never were as good as they were stracked up to be, besides I'll be hanging if I want to be a prince, falling off his horse all the time, besides, I've . . ."

"What the dickens have princesses and princes got to do with old man Brownfield anyway? You were talking about her old man you know."

"Yes, and every time I think of him, I think 'Damn'. These parents are too darn anxious to give orders and do too blooming much minding the business of their children. If they'd just lay off for a while there would be a whole lot fewer divorces, and if one could marry the one they love without outside interference, it would be a better world, and the wives and husbands would make a better stab at making a home. And I'm darn sure Mable and I would be happy. I'm not too hard to get along with, am I, John?"

It would be easier far to describe the things a woman does not want in a husband, but let every man be assured of this fact, no woman likes or wants her man to regard himself as having conferred a favor upon her by marrying her.

And one other thing, she does not want him to put his relations ahead of her in his affections; she claims the undivided throne of his heart.

"Nope," assented John. "I've always found you kind, loving, affectionate, adorable, amusing and even intelligent at times, and all that kind of bunk. Just what has the old man got against you?"

"I just can't figure that part of it out. I haven't a great deal of world's goods, my looks aren't such that will let me in the movies, and I'm not just what anyone would call perfect, but I'm not too blooming bad even if I do say so myself. I think maybe her old man thinks that with her looks, (and she is easy on the eyes) and her music and charming manner, he might marry her off to a 'duke' or millionaire, or 'Movie Star', or something that looks like a man, but who has a pile of dough and the manners and mind of an ox. He's one of those guys that think of nothing else but the almighty dollar, and I believe he'd sell his soul for a dollar and six bits. It's just as bad to sell his daughter and I don't know how I'm going to keep him from doing it."

A month has passed and again Walter is in John's room. John is sitting by the fire with Walter across from him. After fidgeting around for a few minutes, he says, "I wish I was dead. 'It's no use living any longer. Mable went and ditched me and is going to marry that darn 'Harry Moore', and I suppose her old man will be tickled pink to have her join up with the son of the richest merchant in town, even though he is a poor, darn fish, with about as much brains as a coalwagon, the mind of a wooden Indian, and nothing on his mind but hair, booze and brilliantine."

"Now, Walter," said his friend, "Don't get cynical, Harry isn't too rotten, he just wouldn't help himself, that's all. Did you ever hear the story about the 'Dream God', I think it's his doings and that he's wrecked another dream. If you'd found the bead, it wouldn't have happened."

"Found what bead," asked Walter, "Are you crying to be funny?"

"Nope, I'm in earnest and perhaps sometime I'll tell you the story of the 'Wrecker of Dreams.'"

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS TO THE CITIZENS OF LACOMBE

Peace on Earth and Good Will To Humanity

A stranger has come to your town bringing good tidings to you all. I would like to pass the word of good will unto my friends in Lacombe.

Do you know that the $35,000,000.00 of money of the Loyal Order of Moose and the $5,000,000.00 City and School are a safe guard between you and your children and possible mental and physical want? Did it ever occur to you that when your husband became a member in the Loyal Order of Moose, he secured the greatest protection possible for you and the children. THE RIVALS

Canada's two party political leaders have been visiting Toronto at one and the same time. Mr. King was ostensibly not on political warfare bent; Mr. Bennett was the honored guest of the Ontario members of his party in convention assembled. It is not beyond reason, however, to imagine that Mr. King would lose no chance of furthering his political fortunes, while Toronto's guest. Both leaders are astute politicians, as becomes them, and both would seize the opportunity of speaking to Canada from the pulpit, which is Toronto—this is not said ironically. That is their job, too, and it is right and proper that even political leaders should be "on to their job." If they are not their jobs will soon be on to them.

It is becoming evident that events are shaping themselves in Canada for a battle between political giants. Both Mr. King and Mr. Bennett are men of no mean stature. They tower above their fellows. Sometimes they seem to tower above themselves. Each is a foeman worthy of the other's steel. Usually, when speaking of each other, politicians spell the last word of the preceding sentence with an "a" in it—"the other's steal." And steal seems to be the right word in this connection. Each of our national political leaders is trying to steal the other's thunder. Mr. King is proclaiming prosperity announcing that we have it here and now, all of course under the benign reign of the party he leads. Mr. Bennett is denying that prosperity is here, but claiming his "profound conviction" as he himself would put it—that only by the return of his party to power can Canada hope to achieve prosperity. This applies to almost every item in the two leaders' programmes. Whatever one says is right the other says is wrong. Mr. Bennett believes in the old political adage that "the duty of the opposition is to oppose"; Mr. King is convicted that the duty of a party in power is to repose.

But when all is said and done, what is there to choose between our two great political parties more than the difference between repose and repose. Mr. Bennett opposes Mr. King in order that Mr. Bennett may repose on cushioned seats to the right of Mr. Speaker and in the seat of authority. Mr. King does not want to have his repose disturbed. "Get up and let me set down," might well be Mr. Bennett's slogan. "I'm where I want to stay," Mr. King's. That sums up politics in Canada. Nobody means it when he brands the other fellow in politics as a poltroon and an enemy of his country. We all want the pickings. The big fellows in politics want office, preferment, power, and the delights of Ottawa. The little fellows in politics want jobs and favors. Some day the people will awake and say, we want efficiency and happiness and less law and more order. And when they say it and mean it, they'll get it. In the meantime, the time honored farce of "Coddlin's your friend, not Short" will be staged in
